you will defin	itely be mocked, and we'll definitely drink the beer.)
Bonus points	if you bring a beer that no one else brought, especia	ally if no one has ever brought it. (No actual p	oints will be rewarded	.)

Ripley drains	off the last of her Pan-Galactic Gargle Blaster and tos	ses the glass. She catches the eye of Lob	ot as she pushes throug	h the crowd, and before long, she hears the beat start to change - b	become her beat, her moment.
Someone is	touching her arm lightly, and she turns to see Mal over	her shoulder. "You goin' up? Need backup	?" Always so charming,	in his antiquated way, but she waves him off. She's got this.
A cold spice	melange is pushed into her hand as she steps up onto	the platform at the end of Ten Forward. The	ne lights are pulsing, and	I the beat picks up stabs of piano. It's her beat. Her moment.
She pulls the	microphone in close and she can feel the crowd inhale	e in anticipation. "She keeps Moet et Char	ndon in her pretty cabine	t. 'Let them eat
	cake' she says," and the crowd is belting out "just like	Marie Antoinette" with her, and Lando is in	the back laughing that b	eautiful laugh of his.
Behind him,	the stars outside the window are turning.
